Latest Website Changes

Change summary | 10 November 2026 | Main branch update

Product selection and information

Pack sizes in both views. Quick View and Product Details now show available pack options. Selecting a pack updates its price, savings, gallery selection, line total and the item passed to cart or checkout. Quick View opens with the pack selected on the product card.

Content for all 67 catalog products. Each product has a tailored description, four check-mark highlights and usage guidance. The Product Details description tab uses the same shared content as Quick View. Supplier certifications, nutrition and shelf-life claims require verified label data.

Cleaner headings and tabs

Introductory subtitles removed. Supporting introductions beneath page and section titles were removed from Blogs, blog articles, product listings, FAQs, account pages and selected homepage sections.

Square product detail tab items. Description, Ingredients & Nutrition, and Shipping & Returns now use square tab-item corners and straight active underlines. Rounded styling elsewhere remains in place.

More compact layout

Hero and page-header spacing. Reduced top padding, breadcrumb spacing and heading-to-content gaps across Blogs, catalog, FAQs, account and checkout pages. The desktop homepage hero height was reduced from 360 px to 300 px, with tighter spacing on mobile.

Category bar. Reduced padding and gaps between categories. The disabled left-scroll arrow no longer reserves empty space between Offer Zone and the first category; navigation remains available when scrolling is possible.

Single search clear control. The browser-provided search cancel icon is hidden in navigation and catalog search fields, leaving the custom clear button visible.

Validation and delivery

TypeScript checks passed. Updated CSS parsed successfully, and Git whitespace checks passed. Catalog content coverage was verified for 67 of 67 products. These checks do not constitute a full browser regression test.

GitHub: All website changes were pushed to main at commit b22f922 (Tighten page spacing and simplify headings and search controls). Product selection and catalog content were saved in the preceding commit bc97596. This PDF was created after that push.
